The Department of Chemistry & Physics at The University of Tennessee at Chattanooga invites applications for a non-tenure-track Lecturer position in General Chemistry beginning August 1, 2024. The successful candidate will hold an M.S. in Chemistry or related field by the start date. Teaching experience is advantageous. Teaching responsibilities will include general chemistry lecture and lab, general science, and other areas, depending upon the successful candidate's specialization (Analytical Chemistry preferred). Candidates should also be willing to engage in a variety of instructional modalities, including online instruction, and in assisting the UTC campus in its ability to reach additional goals as specified in UTC's Strategic Plan.

The IUPUI School of Science Department of Chemistry & Chemical Biology invites applications for two full-time non-tenure track faculty positions as Lecturer beginning in August 2024. Our department offers a wide variety of courses for chemistry and other STEM majors, and pre-health professional and general education students. Applicants should hold a Ph.D. in Chemistry or a related field or an M.S. in Chemistry and share our values in inclusive and innovative teaching including active learning strategies. This is an open area search and candidates interested in teaching general chemistry, biochemistry, physical, or inorganic chemistry courses are especially encouraged to apply. Experience in online or active learning pedagogy, such as PLTL, would be beneficial. Non-tenure track teaching faculty have service and scholarly work expectations in addition to their primary teaching load and are eligible for promotion through Senior Lecturer to Teaching Professor.
